

The Good Food Collective Sharing Food Cultures for LBBD Black History Month

All images courtesy of Eden Community Storehouse, Kingsley Hall

An update from the Good Food Collective: Community Cooks

After lots of deliberation, + with recent changes to Covid-19 risk levels and government guidelines, the group have decided to channel their efforts towards sharing their meals with the community.

This Thursday 29th Oct, inspired by the likes of Granville Community Kitchen, Edible London + Made Up Kitchen; we are asking all attendees of our Community Cooks Lunch to Pass It On.

The cooks will be cooking together + distributing the meals to the Eden Community Storehouse freezers for future hot meals distribution as part of their Covid-19 response activities in the community.

The Good Food Collective are grateful to LBBD and everyone who showed interest in the event for their ongoing support, we hope you agree this is a much better way for us to be sharing our skills, our dishes + our stories.

Many thanks for all your support
The Good Food Collective + Company Drinks

